PRESENTING CLINICAL SIGNS

History: ventral cervical swelling - R side
 Abnormal PE/Chem/CBC/UA Results: submitted sample for culture and sens cytology - pyogranulomatous inflammation

ULTRASONOGRAPHIC EXAMINATION

A 5.0 x 5.0 cm, fluid filled, echogenic viscus was noted with granulation bed. This is consistent with abscessation. The visible thyroid lobes were unremarkable. The trachea and esophagus were unremarkable. Echogenic foci are present within the abscess. This may represent partially disruptive foreign matter. The abscess appears to be localized in the subcutaneous space and does not appear to involve any major organ.

ULTRASONOGRAPHIC FINDINGS

Subcutaneous abscessation with minor, echogenic foci, possible degenerating foreign matter may be present.

INTERPRETATION OF THE FINDINGS & FURTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

I recommend surgical intervention with complete aperture and abscessation curettage or surgical removal of the abscess. There is no suspicion of neoplasia.
