PRESENTING CLINICAL SIGNS

Clean up scan.

ULTRASONOGRAPHIC EXAMINATION OF THE HEART

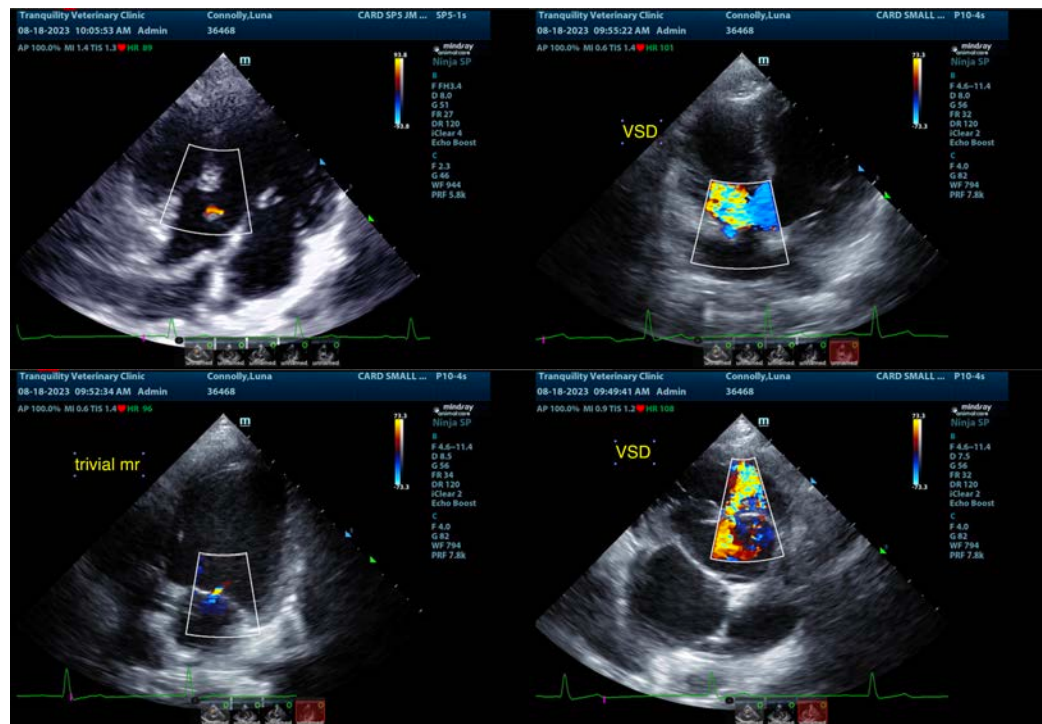

Upon further review, the ventricular septum revealed a small defect with left to right shunting. Concurrent pulmonic insufficiency noted, yet minor. The deep pulmonary artery was free of evident pathology. No evidence of PDA noted. Trivial mitral insufficiency noted. Trivial aortic insufficiency noted. Mild tricuspid insufficiency noted. Hepatic veins were not dilated.

ULTRASONOGRAPHIC FINDINGS

- Stable, compensated ventricular septal defect with left to right shunting
- Minor pulmonic insufficiency
- Minor tricuspid insufficiency
- Trivial mitral insufficiency
- Trivial aortic insufficiency, essentially physiological change

INTERPRETATION OF THE FINDINGS & FURTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

The heart appears compensated at this time. Given the age of the patient, there is a possibility that the ventricular septal defect will close on its own. Recheck echocardiogram in 6 months, earlier if murmur grade changes dramatically.
